

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides methods for detecting a micro-organism in a biological sample and simultaneously determining its resistance to antibiotics. The methods utilize micro-arrays to evaluate microbial genes often associated with antibiotic resistance.